

Beautifully honest

A subway full of people
On their way back home
All captured by their thoughts
How they could feel less alone

A crying man is entering
Sitting next to me
The whole atmosphere is changing
Is it just me to see

He's strong, I'm so hypnotised
Can't hold myself back from looking
He smiles with tears in his eyes
Right back at me, right back at me

So beautifully honest

She seems to have the perfect life
She's working hard for it.
Know she must be grateful
For what she has achieved

But they're under the spell of the surface
Too perfect for a scratch
Oh how they would be amazed of
Who they'd met

She's strong, is there anything else to crave
Can't hold myself back from asking
She smiles with tears on her face
Starting all over, she said she'd undo it all.

Beautifully honest.

A subway full of people
On their way back home.